OBEY GOD WHOLEHEARTEDLY

Exodus 25:1-28:43; 30:1-38 | REV. LITO VILLORIA

God's covenant with Israel had been ratified (Exodus 24). A crucial element of the covenant was for Israel to appear before God's presence three times a year (Exodus 23:14-17). God called Moses up to the mountain and gave detailed instructions on how to construct God's sanctuary. The blueprint and actual construction of this Holy Place was detailed in ten chapters (Exodus 25-28, 30, 35-39).

God's tabernacle was a central element in the life of Israel. It was the dwelling place of God in their midst (Exodus 25:8; 29:45); it was the meeting place of God and His people (29:42, 43). And, it is where God displayed His glory (40:35).

God gave an opportunity for every Israelite to take part in the building of His dwelling place (Exodus 25:1-2a). The people were not coerced but were to give the best of what they had wholeheartedly (25:2b-7). Moses needed to make the tabernacle and all its furnishings exactly following God's detailed instructions (25:9).

Pertaining to following God's instructions, precision was important because the repercussions could be perilous. Moses and his foremen had to do exactly what God had commanded. Otherwise, they could experience God's wrath with the slightest deviation from His instructions (cf. 2 Sam 6:6). But if they diligently obeyed, they would experience the blessing of God's presence (Exodus 25:8).

When you obey wholeheartedly, God's presence will be the source of your wisdom and strength. Constantly exercising your spiritual muscles of obedience will lead to clarity on the way God wants you to go and the work He wants you to do (Haggai 1:13-14; 2:4-5).✱
