THE PRECIOUS LOVE OF GOD

PSALM 36:7-9 | REV. LITO VILLORIA

When wickedness seems to prevail, be confident the precious love of God will hold us up. God showed His great love for mankind on the Cross of Christ. Christ shed His precious blood for our redemption and forgiveness of our sins. Since our faith is anchored in Christ, we need to understand that His precious love is manifested not only at the Cross, but in every area of our life.

In Psalm 36, David reveals the heart of the wicked, recalls the attributes of God, and requests a favor from God.

David witnessed how the wicked harbors sin in his heart. He described the wicked as one who does not fear God. The wicked deceives himself thinking he can get away with sin. His mouth is full of hatred, his conduct is wayward, his behavior is underhanded. He does no good and promotes evil (36:1-4).

Faced with wickedness, David found confidence in recalling the attributes of God which he experienced. He declared God's steadfast love, faithfulness, righteousness, and justice. God's precious love is manifested in His guaranteed protection, gracious provision, and guiding perspective (36:5-9).

As David waited upon God for deliverance, he found restedness in who God is and how He works in his life. He pleaded for God to uphold with His steadfast love those who strive to know Him and who walk in His ways. At the same time, he prayed for God to drive away the wicked and deal with them decisively (36:10-12).

In God's sovereign wisdom, He allows His people to go through seasons of difficulties to strengthen their faith. During those moments, we may not fully understand God's purposes and even His ways. But one thing is sure—God's steadfast love will always hold us up. In this sermon, we will learn how God manifests His precious love in every area of our life, especially during times of difficulty.✠
